Market Review

Yields rose by 30-40bps in June, reversing over half of this year's rally. Despite the continuous moderation in local inflation to 5.4% in June from May's 6.1% print, the market decided to focus on rising yields in the U.S., as well as the Bureau of Treasury's decision to upsize its weekly FXTN auctions from P25b to P30b. Stronger-than-expected activity and jobs data in the U.S. fueled speculation of another Federal Reserve hike this month with possibility of rate cuts pushed back to next year. Nevertheless, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) maintained its stance that it has room to extend its pause in adjusting the policy rate.

Outlook

While we acknowledge the presence of upside risks to inflation stemming from El Nino, we continue to expect local inflation to ease through the second half of the year and fall within the BSP's target range of 2-4% in 4Q. Furthermore, the recent sell-off has made local yields attractive with longer tenors approaching 7%. Indeed, volatility in U.S. interest rates has been spilling over to the local bond market, but the Philippines' improving macroeconomic fundamentals, remains supportive of a positive second half.

The Fund mentioned in this document is specific to variable life insurance contracts and is not considered a mutual fund. Yields depend on interest and foreign exchange rate levels, both of which may fluctuate. Other factors that affect yield include changes in the credit standing of the issuers and changes in the value of the stocks and dividends received. Further, investments of the Fund may provide that their values be determined based on prices or yields of other securities, instruments or foreign currencies, and such provisions may result in negative fluctuations in the value of these investments and, in turn, the Fund's yields. Thus, the performance of the separate account(s) is not guaranteed and the value of the policy could be less than the capital invested. THE VARIABLE LIFE POLICYHOLDER SHALL BEAR ALL INVESTMENT RISKS. Past performance of the Fund is not necessarily indicative of future performance. Yields are not guaranteed.
