Market Review

Recent developments in the Israel and Iran conflict have dampened investor risk sentiment, including the Philippine local bonds. The local yield curve continues to remain steep on weaker demand on the long ends amid the ongoing tension in the Middle East. However, June inflation printed at 1.4%, slightly higher than May's 1.3% but well below the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas' (BSP) 2-4% target. With rice prices moderating, we anticipate local inflation will remain slightly below the 2% of the BSP's target range. Following this, BSP Governor Remollona's dovish stance suggests the possibility of two additional rate cuts by the end of 2025.

Outlook

With rice prices moderating, we anticipate inflation will remain slightly below the 2% of the BSP's target range. Following this, BSP Governor Remollona's dovish stance suggests the possibility of two additional rate cuts by the end of 2025. In the absence of any fresh catalysts and with inflation risk minimized, we expect the market to continue to look to global developments for direction. In the near term, we will closely monitor US President Trump's tariff policies as these could sway market sentiment and yield direction.

The Fund mentioned in this document is specific to variable life insurance contracts and is not considered a mutual fund. Yields depend on interest and foreign exchange rate levels, both of which may fluctuate. Other factors that affect yield include changes in the credit standing of the issuers and changes in the value of the stocks and dividends received. Further, investments of the Fund may provide that their values be determined based on prices or yields of other securities, instruments or foreign currencies, and such provisions may result in negative fluctuations in the value of these investments and, in turn, the Fund's yields. Thus, the performance of the separate account(s) is not guaranteed and the value of the policy could be less than the capital invested. THE VARIABLE LIFE POLICYHOLDER SHALL BEAR ALL INVESTMENT RISKS. Past performance of the Fund is not necessarily indicative of future performance. Yields are not guaranteed.
