Market Review

Local inflation rate moderated to 6.1% in May from April's 6.6% print, resulting in a strong bond market performance in May and decent demand in the Bureau of Treasury's recent bond auctions. The softening inflation backdrop allowed the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) to keep its policy rate steady at the Monetary Board meeting in May at 6.25%, with BSP Governor Medalla signaling an extended pause in policy rate adjustments and a potential end to its tightening cycle. The latest GDP print of 6.4% in 1Q is well within the market's expected range, albeit a marked slowdown from the previous quarter.

Outlook

We expect local inflation to continue easing through the second half of 2023, with the inflation rate expected to fall within the BSP's target range of 2-4%. While volatility in U.S. interest rates has been spilling over to the local bond market, moderating inflation, along with the Philippines' improving macroeconomic fundamentals, remains supportive of a positive second half. Year to date, the local bond market has delivered solid returns and we can expect a continuation of this positive performance for the rest of 2023.
