Market Review

The Philippine Stock Exchange Index (PSEi) fell by 1.31% to 6,155.57 in August, settling near its lowest level since April, with a year-to-date return of -3.3%. The market's decline was driven by continued outflows, despite the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) implementing its third consecutive rate cut and market expectations of at least two more rate cuts by the US Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) before year-end.

In August, the consumer price index rose by 1.5% year-on-year, up from 0.9% in July. This increase in inflation was largely due to higher food and non-alcoholic beverage prices, which went up by 0.9% after a 0.2% decrease in July. The main drivers were a 10% rise in vegetable and fruit prices, reversing a 4.7% drop in July, and a 9.5% increase in fish and seafood prices, up from a 6.3% rise in July. Food inflation climbed as weather disruptions affected the supply of key food items like vegetables and fish. In contrast, rice prices continued to fall because of lower international prices, sufficient domestic supply, and government efforts to stabilize prices.

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) will continue to monitor emerging risks to inflation and determine the appropriate monetary policy response to maintain price stability, which is conducive to sustainable economic growth and employment. They expect average inflation to fall below the target in 2025 before returning to the target range in 2026 and 2027.

Outlook

The BSP took advantage of easing inflation and a 2.02% recovery in the Peso in August to lower rates for the third consecutive meeting, reducing the policy rate to 5%. However, any additional rate cuts will likely depend on future data regarding inflation and economic growth. Nevertheless, there is market speculation that there could be room for one more rate cut in 2025. We anticipate that the market will close the year on a positive note, given current valuations near a 10x price-to-earnings ratio (PER), as consumer spending is expected to rise during the traditionally strong holiday season.

The Fund mentioned in this document is specific to variable life insurance contracts and is not considered a mutual fund. Yields depend on interest and foreign exchange rate levels, both of which may fluctuate. Other factors that affect yield include changes in the credit standing of the issuers and changes in the value of the stocks and dividends received. Further, investments of the Fund may provide that their values be determined based on prices or yields of other securities, instruments or foreign currencies, and such provisions may result in negative fluctuations in the value of these investments and, in turn, the Fund's yields. Thus, the performance of the separate account(s) is not guaranteed and the value of the policy could be less than the capital invested. THE VARIABLE LIFE POLICYHOLDER SHALL BEAR ALL INVESTMENT RISKS. Past performance of the Fund is not necessarily indicative of future performance. Yields are not guaranteed.
