Market Review

The world equity markets performed well in August, as generally upbeat news flow helped support investor sentiment. US Federal Reserve (Fed) Chairman Jerome Powell indicated that the central bank was likely to cut interest rates in September, fueling optimism that the global easing cycle would continue. In addition, positive data regarding growth, inflation, and corporate earnings supported an emerging consensus that US tariffs will largely prove to be a non-issue for the markets. Together, these factors helped propel the major world stock indexes to a series of all-time highs. Japan performed particularly well, with the Nikkei 225 Index topping 43,000 for the first time behind declining trade concerns and robust demand from foreign investors. European equities also continued to move higher despite political instability in France. US stocks, while positive, lagged somewhat following their meaningful outperformance over the previous four months. China was a notable bright spot in the emerging markets. The geographic region's indexes benefited from favorable liquidity conditions, strong interest among local investors, and optimism about the Chinese tech sector's growing presence in the development of artificial intelligence.

Outlook

Macro developments continue to dominate headlines, elevating uncertainty, and volatility. In the short term, resilient economic data and good earnings growth have resulted in high stock valuations. With tariffs and global supply-chain disruptions, we expect global growth to slow. Balancing those time horizons, the portfolio managers remain anchored in the belief that high-quality industry leaders will deliver consistently solid financial results over time.

The Fund mentioned in this document is specific to variable life insurance contracts and is not considered a mutual fund. Yields depend on interest and foreign exchange rate levels, both of which may fluctuate. Other factors that affect yield include changes in the credit standing of the issuers and changes in the value of the stocks and dividends received. Further, investments of the Fund may provide that their values be determined based on prices or yields of other securities, instruments or foreign currencies, and such provisions may result in negative fluctuations in the value of these investments and, in turn, the Fund's yields. Thus, the performance of the separate account(s) is not guaranteed and the value of the policy could be less than the capital invested. THE VARIABLE LIFE POLICYHOLDER SHALL BEAR ALL INVESTMENT RISKS. Past performance of the Fund is not necessarily indicative of future performance. Yields are not guaranteed.
