Market Review

The PSEi was down 14.19% for the month of September closing at 5,741 as the weakness in global markets caused by rising global rates and a weak peso currency continues to influence the weak performance of local equity shares. Both the 10-year US Treasuries which rose to as high as 4% and the Philippines Peso depreciated to as high as P59/$1 contributed to renewed negative equities market sentiment. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas raised policy rates by 50bps to 4.25% on the back of continued US Federal Reserve tightening which raised US policy rates by 75bps to 3%.

Local Inflation for the month of September was 6.9% higher than 6.3% in August. The September inflation print takes the YTD average inflation above the BSP's upper range target of 4% on account of increasing prices of food, utilities, and fuel.

Bank of the Philippine Islands and Robinsons Bank is under discussions for a potential merger with BPI as the surviving entity and the JGS Group owning a 6% stake in BPI. Currently, BPI is the third largest bank in the country with assets amounting to P2.46 trillion.

The higher bond yield trend continued in September as local government securities traded an average of 74bps higher across the curve on the back of the generally hawkish rhetoric from the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) and the US FED.

Outlook

We have a positive bias towards Philippine equities with the PSEi now trading below 12x forward price to earnings ratio. We think that much of the weakness in local equities seen in September were largely influenced by weak global market factors. Nevertheless, on the domestic front, we await the start of the 3rd quarter reporting season as the next catalyst for the equities market. Despite the global economic slowdown, we remain positive that the strong domestic consumption patterns seen in the 1st half of 2022 will likely be carried over into the 2nd half of 2022 as the reopening theme has not been fully priced-in. We are constructive that the ongoing resumption in face-to-face classes, pent-up demand for discretionary spending and the upcoming Christmas Holiday celebrations will be catalysts for a re-rating in local equities. Risks to watch out for the remainder of 2022 include continued strength of the US dollar and rising global rates which could further trigger global economic slowdown.

Year to date, the Monetary Board of the BSP has hiked policy rates by a total of 225 bps versus the US FED's 300 bps, bringing the respective rates at 4.25% and 3.25%. With recent Fed dot plots pointing to another 125bps of hikes for the remainder of the year, we can expect the BSP to hike by at least an additional 75-100bps. Against this backdrop, we will generally keep an overall shorter duration positioning vis-à-vis the benchmark. We plan to keep an underweight position on the short end due to the expected BSP rate hikes, while opportunistically looking to add duration at the current attractive levels.
