Market Review

The Philippine stock market index (PSEi) closed at 5,701 in April, up 7.1% for the month and -27% year-to-date. The market slumped as much as 41% year-to-date after the announcement of the lockdown but has since recovered around 23% from the lows. Continued increase in COVID-19 cases and fears of a second wave of infections led to the government extending the enhanced community quarantine to May 15 in selected areas, including Metro Manila. Meanwhile, other areas in Luzon where the infections are not as severe were adjusted to a more relaxed form of quarantine. Globally, economic activity continues to wane with commodity prices declining sharply amidst lack of demand. WTI Oil price futures plunged briefly below zero USD per barrel as storage concerns for the commodity mounted, amidst lack of demand globally.

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) cut policy rates by another 50bps to 2.75%, its lowest level, in an off-cycle meeting in an effort to strongly encourage lending across different sectors of the economy amid the COVID-19 pandemic. The expectation is that the BSP may cut another 200bps in reserve requirement to 12%. BSP Governor Diokno signaled that the BSP stands ready to further ease monetary conditions in response to the current crisis. Additionally, Finance Sec. Carlos Dominguez said that the government is thinking of providing extra stimulus measures that includes wage subsidies and loan guarantees to SMEs critical to this crisis. The new stimulus program is now at P1.45Tn which includes new measures like P120Bn provisions for SME credit guarantees and P51Bn wage subsidy for displaced workers.

The Philippine local bond market experienced a strong rally in April as the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) flexed its muscles and instigated measures to help the economy and calm the financial markets. An off cycle 50bps cut in policy rates on April 16 contributed to the total 125bps policy cut from the BSP since the start of 2020. The aggressive moves by the BSP coupled with the local equivalent of Quantitative Easing (BSP's daily purchases of government bonds from banks in the secondary market) signaled its solid support to the Philippine economy and brought bond yields to 2020 lows.

Outlook

In the near term, market recovery may be muted as investors look to slowing economies globally as evidenced by the recent collapse of oil prices. Locally, the market will take its cue from the upcoming 1Q20 earnings results for concerns around potentially severe earnings deterioration and impact to this year's GDP performance brought about by the pandemic. Moving forward, we also expect companies to trim their previous capex guidance and spending plans for the rest of the year as most companies go into cash preservation mode. Companies are likely to focus on maintenance works of existing facilities, lesser store openings in the retail space, and slower residential and office project completions. The "new normal" will also push companies to rethink operations and leverage on technology in light of social distancing practices. On a positive note, the Philippines will be a beneficiary of lower oil prices as lower oil imports may help offset the potential impact of lower dollar flows from remittances and BPO revenues.

We are beginning to position the portfolio in anticipation of better market conditions from a gradual loosening of the Enhanced Community Quarantine in Luzon by May 15. We look to enhance our portfolio positioning by capitalizing on regional market trends that have emerged from the pandemic earlier and redeploy excess cash positions on any stock price weakness.

Slowing inflation with April printing at 2.2% provides a supportive environment for more policy cuts from the BSP. However, BSP has announced that it will monitor impacts of their recent moves before implementing additional actions. The extension of the Enhanced Community Quarantine for select areas in the Philippines will continue to push May inflation lower as the restrictive environment hamper economic activity. As the May 15 deadline of the latest extension draws near, numerous uncertainties dominate and provide uncertainty for local bond yield direction. In light of this, we continue to maintain a neutral duration positioning while continuing to hold overweight positions on select securities.
