Market Review

The Philippine Stock Exchange Index experienced a marginal decline in June, closing at 6,411.91 points. The 0.11% month-over-month decline places the PSEi's year-to-date return at 1.21%. It is important to note that due to the local currency's 5.5% year-to-date depreciation, the benchmark's US dollar return remains negative at 4.09%. Despite valuations reaching multi-year lows, the market continues to be overshadowed by concerns about higher interest rates and inflation.

In June, Philippine inflation slowed from May's 3.9% to 3.7% year-over-year. The drop was driven by a decline in fuel and utilities for the period, offsetting food inflation which showed a slight acceleration in the period. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas forecasts that full-year average inflation will fall within its target range of 2% to 4% for 2024.

Meanwhile, President Ferdinand Marcos Jr. signed Executive Order 62, reducing import duties on rice from 35% to 15%, effective in July. This measure is expected to bring headline inflation closer to 2%, reinforcing market expectations that the BSP will begin to reduce rates from the current 6.5%. While the BSP kept rates unchanged in its June 27 policy meeting, it reiterated a less hawkish stance. The BSP's monetary board is set to convene next on August 15.

Local yields ended slightly lower in June as inflation rose slower than expected in May. Rate cut expectations were further reinforced with June's inflation print showing a decline for the first time this year. The government's issuance of Executive Order (EO) 62, which covers the reduction of import duty on rice, among others, dramatically improved the local inflation outlook. In fact, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) lowered its risk-adjusted inflation estimate to 3.1% for this year and next, from 3.8% and 3.7%, respectively.

Outlook

Based on macroeconomic developments, we maintain a positive outlook for the market. Inflation is expected to comfortably settle within the BSP's target range for this year. Anticipated rate cuts in the third quarter are likely to fuel a re-rating by the market.

The better inflation outlook and the dovish tilt of recent BSP statements significantly improved the sentiment on the local bond market. We expect BSP to deliver the first rate cut in August as inflation moderates, especially as the Peso stabilized over the past weeks. Nevertheless, while we expect the bond rally to continue, we are mindful of the possibility of some retracement should there be negative surprises that will alter the inflation outlook and push back the timing of BSP rate cuts, such as a delay in the implementation of EO 62.
